The outer layer was taken out to stop an outbreak of rabbits using the garden. The council is working to keep the lawn damage to a minimum, and a contractor has been contracted to take out any existing pipes. Councillor Harry Blunn said: "We have received a number of complaints about rabbits defecating in the garden and there is evidence that it is becoming a problem. "We are in contact with a pest control expert who has agreed to remove the outer layer of insulation from the area to stop the vermin outbreak. "We have also arranged for a contractor to take out any existing pipes as necessary. "We are still in the early stages of dealing with this and we are taking measures to keep the damage to the garden to a minimum."Q: Sealing your house at night so that the bats don't get into the house My neighbor has mentioned that he can't sleep well at night because of the bats in his house. He said that the bats are somehow getting into his house at night and that they eat insects and wake him up. He said that he tried sealing his house from the inside with insects bugs or rat poison but it doesn't seem to work. Is there any way to seal your house from the inside so that the bats or other animals can't get into your house? A: Use a vacuum cleaner to vacuum out all the crumbs and other food bits
