What's new:

.02.20192.18.2016 Stroener in line for murder review Australian Rugby Union boss Steve Tew says the game against Tonga in June is a crucial match for the Wallabies and "a lot of the big-ticket decisions" for the entire international team will be based on the result. "There are a whole lot of other decisions hanging over it, so we're under no illusion that this is the ultimate decision," Tew told AAP.

"But I don't think we're going to approach this game by thinking, 'If this game goes OK, we're in a good space'." Tew also revealed that stand-in captain Will Genia has a knee injury, adding that the 21-year-old is a "bit stressed out" and isn't sure how he will travel to Tonga. "Will wasn't sure he would be fit to play and tonight he thought he'd be able to get over the line," Tew said. "Basically it's not a major worry but it's a stress [on] the body and mind being Australia's player. "Will's doing his best to listen and his career's on the line, so he's doing everything possible to play." Tew is also keeping his options open on the question of who will captain the squad in the future and the identity of the man he has picked to lead the Wallabies in the Test match against Tonga at Noosa on June 9. "And I don't want to pre-empt that decision until the coach has made his post-match observations and then then make some comments on that," he said. Asked what he makes of the situation of Stephen Moore, who was the captain of the Wallabies in their series-clinching win over South Africa in November but has since been dropped as a possible match-day 18. Moore has requested a full-time captaincy but Tew has refused to make him captain of the Wallabies. "I think it's a bit sad it's a so-called 'one-off' and there has to be a broader narrative that says it's not just a one-off but a permanent [change]," he said. "Can you see those two guys uniting as the two senior captains? It would be an interesting dynamic. I would prefer not to answer that question. "The whole way through the tour he
